Rainbow Garden Club Meets in Shell Home

The Rainbow Garden Club began the fall activities with a meeting on Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. M. D. Shell with Mrs. Albert Peachey co-hostess.

Mrs. Bill Bolton, president, called the meeting to order and read the club command. The minutes were read and the roll called by the secretary, Mrs. N. A. Peters. Reports of committee chairmen were heard.

Mrs. Bolton presented the program "Flower Arrangements For The Home." Various arrangements were brought by members and were commented on during the program.

Mrs. L. C. Gallin, Mrs. Wendell Prescott, Mrs. C. G. Johnson and Mrs. Gordon Danner were welcomed as new members.

A dessert course was served to the 18 present.

Mrs. Jim Nelson Entertains '47 Bridge Club Wednesday

A bowl filled with gardenias adorned the coffee table and an arrangement of marigolds centered the dining table in the home of Mrs. Jim Nelson on Wednesday afternoon when she entertained the '47 Bridge Club with a dessert bridge.

The high score award was won by Mrs. O. W. Watkins.

Mrs. Guss McCaskill and Mrs. Wayne Jordan were guests. Other members included Mrs. C. R. Gray, Mrs. J. B. Franks, Mrs. B. A. DeLamar, Mrs. Glenn Hairston, Mrs. E. R. Ward, Mrs. Bob Reynolds, Mrs. Earl Eppier, Mrs. Bob Yarbrough and Mrs. Bill Oates.

'Twenty-One' TV

Stempel, who charged last year that "Twenty-One" was rigged, has said he finally lost to Van Doren purposely, by agreement.

The subcommittee has said that it has no plans to question Van Doren, who has told a New York grand jury he had no idea any cheating was afoot. Van Doren, at the time of his quiz show appearance, was a Columbia University English professor. Now he is a radio commentator.

Two more "Twenty-One" contestants were on call to testify in the inquiry on charges that rigged quiz shows used the air "deceitfully to exploit for private profit the interest of the viewing public."

That description of the charges was given by chairman Owen Harris (D-Ark.) in a statement prepared to open the hearings. Harris said, "Investigation indicates that a number of control techniques have been used in a deliberate effort to favor some contestants."

Two of the witnesses called to testify were among the first of one-time quiz show contestants to charge fixing of some shows. They are Herbert Stempel, who won $49,500 on "Twenty-One" in 1955, and James Snodgrass who won $4063.

Harris said a third contestant on call is Richard Jackson, a New Yorker like the two others. In addition to film clips of the programs it is studying, the subcommittee is armed with testimony and records gathered by a New York grand jury which looked into charges of rigging quiz shows. The grand jury indicted no one, and its report was kept secret.

The court gave the material to the committee with the stipulation it could not be made public as such, but might be used as a basis for questioning witnesses.

possible federal intervention through the Taft-Hartley law with the announcement here of total stalemate in negotiations.

The union insists it will not return to work until a contract is reached.

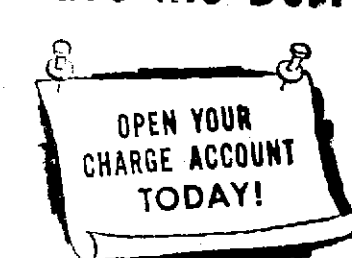

Shippers claim the ILA violated an agreement to extend their contract to Oct. 15 and declare they will not consider any talks until work resumes or until after that date.

At Palm Springs, Calif., President Eisenhower called the strike, detrimental to the American people and urged a swift settlement. He had no comment on possible intervention.

The number of cargo ships stranded in ports mounted well past the 200 mark. The problems of handling passenger baggage from luxury liners grew more pressing.

At issue in the strike are work control clauses and pay provisions.

Sen. Fulbright Cites Need in the Cold War

LITTLE ROCK — America's lack in the Cold War race with Russia is in getting across to Americans the idea of a goal. Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) says.

Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev can say to his people "The goal is to surpass America," and everybody tends to support it. Relations Committee said last night.

But in the United States, long term planning is more difficult because "We suffer from not having a goal that can be simply described."

"It's hard to describe a thing like freedom," he added.

Fulbright spoke at a civic dinner in his honor. It was "Bill Fulbright Day" in Little Rock and North Little Rock, sponsored by the Young Men's Business Assn. Some 230 persons, including Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) attended.

Khrushchev Fulbright told the audience is more dangerous than Stalin was for several reasons: because he is kinder; he is shrewd enough to appreciate education; and he has supported scholars and intellectuals instead of driving them out of his country, as Hitler did.

Before his address, Fulbright told a news conference that Khrushchev's recent visit to this country might serve as the beginning for new negotiations to end the Cold War.

He viewed Khrushchev's meeting with President Eisenhower as helpful.

"Apparently the tension is lessened a bit," he said. "I'm glad they had the meeting. I hope there will be more, whether it is between the heads of state or foreign ministers."

Fulbright said Khrushchev's statements during his Red China visit this month indicated the Red boss may give his foreign ministers more authority to negotiate. "But then we don't know how much reliance to put on Khrushchev's statements," Fulbright added.

Fulbright said it was too early to predict if he would run for reelection in 1962. He said Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) would make "a very good candidate" for the Democratic presidential sions.

The ILA wants a 50-cent hourly pay raise. The shippers have offered a 50-cent hourly package increase. Prestrike wages averaged $2.80.

Moreover the union opposes employers' demands for more leeway in introducing automation on the docks. The ILA fears that will result in widespread job losses.

Hamburg Business Buildings Burn

HAMBURG, Ark. (AP)—A spectacular fire destroyed a block-long building housing eight business firms last night. Damage was estimated at $150,000.

No one was injured.

The Blank Building, built in 1913, was a mass of flames by the time firemen arrived. Heavy rains had soaked down nearby structures protecting them from sparks that flew from the roaring fire. Flames were visible five or six miles away.

All communications and electrical power in Hamburg was knocked out for a time. Lights were restored after about two hours and telephone crews were rushed in to repair lines. A long distance cable apparently burned.

The fire was believed to have started in the center of the building.

However, he said he doubted if Johnson would be nominated since he was from the South.

"There's such a prejudice from the north and west that I think it's very unlikely that anyone south of the Mason-Dixon line could be nominated," he said.

Firemen from Crossett aided in controlling the flames. The building smoldered hours later.

DOROTHY DIX

Second Wife Left Out In the Cold While Step-Daughter Rules Roost

By DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix:

My married step-daughter rules two houses — her own and her father's. After being a widow for ten years I married a man who was, or so it seemed, a wonderful person. It didn't take me long to find out he is selfish, conceited and likes a good time, but not with me. I get no consideration and am not even permitted to run the house. That's his daughter's job, although she is married and has a home of her own. Her dad has money, and she's determined that none of it will ever fall into my hands. Yet, if we need a small electrical appliance, daughter must be consulted before we can buy it. My husband is only home to eat and sleep. The rest of the time he spends at the shop or with his daughter. I might as well live alone and have peace.

Dear Sarah: Here's a system that works so well it's almost infallible. Tell hubby you're tired, need a rest, and have decided to take a long trip, leaving him in the very capable hands of your devoted child. Cash in some of those bonds and buy a ticket to some exciting place, or sign up with a cruise. Your step daughter doesn't REALLY want her daddy around all the time, and she'll soon send out a loud SOS (Send our Sarah). Absence may not always make the heart grow fonder, but when the absent one is also engineer of the cook-stove, it sure sharpens the appetite.

ways make the heart grow fonder, but when the absent one is also engineer of the cook-stove, it sure sharpens the appetite.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

My steady boy friend doesn't want me to go with my girl friends. Should I keep my friends or my steady?—Dot

Dear Dot: Life would be very dull without the companionship of your own sex. Don't give up your friends for the whim of a man. Give him up. You're bound to find a more understanding person.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

My husband makes me miserable with his habit of looking at every girl he sees. He says every man does it. I don't agree. I've told him it annoys me, but he says he won't stop. I've tried looking at other fellows but it hasn't worked.—Connie

Dear Connie: As long as he stays a "looker," you have nothing to worry about. Look with him. Point out a pretty girl, comment on her nice hair, the color of her dress, then pass an admiring remark about her escort. If you can't fight 'em, join 'em. At least, it's better than going into a swivel over nothing. And never forget — hubby married you and while other charmers may attract him you're the one he caught.

Send your problem to DOROTHY DIX. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and address her care of this newspaper.

Colony for Children Is Dedicated

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—Some 3,000 persons, including Gov. Orval E. Faubus gathered here yesterday for the formal dedication of the Arkansas Children's Colony.

The cottage-type, $1,200,000 facility was built to train and care for mentally retarded children. It has admitted 63 youngsters so far.

A. Nils Florentz of Little Rock, chairman of the colony board of directors, was praised by Gov. Orval E. Faubus as "the man who saw the need and dreamed the dream of a colony for these children."

Florentz said the colony, at present, could only serve one of seven retarded children needing aid. He spoke of "the heart-breaking job we had of selecting 256 (children) from the more than 1,500 completed applications."

"There were no unworthy applicants," Florentz said. "We just had to select those whom we thought could benefit the most."

Faubus also praised the Arkansas Legislature "for having the

Baptists Select Retirement Director

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Dr. T. K. Rucker, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Forrest City, has been named director of retirement plans for the Arkansas Baptist Convention, effective Oct. 15.

Rucker takes a job created recently by the convention's executive board. He will promote participation by state churches in the Southern Baptist Convention's retirement program.

Rucker has been pastor of the Forrest City Church for eight years. He resigned this pastorate yesterday. No successor has been named.

More Money for Retirement Fund

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Higher teacher salaries and more teachers retiring probably will cut into increased state payments to the teacher retirement fund, Education Commissioner Arch Ford predicts.

A report to the Teacher Retirement Board shows 2,333 teachers received $2,479,151 last fiscal year, compared to 2,211 teachers paid 42,222,051 the previous year.

Do or Die Today for the Chicago White Sox Team

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers, finally reaping a payoff from the promised land, can tack away major league baseball's world championship today and make the Chicago White Sox 40-year wait for a World Series hardly seem worth it.

After taking a 3-1 edge in the best-of-seven series when Gil Hodges' tie-breaking home run beat the White Sox 5-4 Monday, the Dodgers now can end it all by winning today's fifth game. They're favored at 11-10 to do just that.

And it's 5-1 the Sox don't win it ever.

The White Sox, putting runners on base, but leaving 'em to tan there in the hot sun of Memorial Coliseum, picked right-hander Bob Shaw for the must game. He was the loser in the second game, 4-3 at Chicago's Comiskey Park.

The Dodgers gave the ball to Sandy Kousser, the sometimes wild, but strikeout-sure southpaw. It will be his first World Series starting assignment. He gets it because manager Walt Alston wants to give lefty Johnny Podres all the rest he needs should the series go back to Comiskey Park again.

It was Podres who defeated

Shaw, with relief from Larry Sherry, the right-handed rookie who has put away two saves and was credited with Monday's victory in relief of Roger Craig.

White Sox manager Al Lopez still insists "we have a helluva chance," but only two teams ever have come back after losing three of the first four in a seven-game series. The 1925 Pittsburghs did it against Washington, and last year the New York Yankees swept the last three from Milwaukee.

There's a better chance that another record crowd will be on hand. The Dodgers and White Sox, sure of getting their fingers into the richest players' pool ever, have broken the existing crowd record on consecutive days here in Los Angeles—where Mayor Norris Poulson boasted "we think big" in making his winning pitch to the Brooklyn Dodgers three years ago.

The Dodgers' flight to the promised land paid off with a crowd of 92,294 Sunday for the first series game ever on the West Coast.

Monday's attendance topped that by 258, establishing the record at 92,550.

The players' share of Monday's gate was $231,268.18, boosting the total pool, based on the first four games only, to a record $92,335.04. The winning club would have to hold its split to 33 players, however, to beat the winning-share record of $11,147.90.

100 Search for Missing Airman

DEWITT, Ark. (AP)—A 43-year-old Air Force sergeant emerged unharmed today from a wooded area where he had been lost since Sunday.

DE WITT, Ark. (AP)—An all-out effort by about 100 men was planned today in the search for a missing airman, lost while on a hunting trip in thick woods south-east of here.

M—Sat. Samuel W. Stone, 43, of Little Rock Air Force Base, has been missing since Sunday morning. He and his hunting companion Elmer Sinkov of North Little Rock became separated. Sinkov made it back to their car where the wives of the men were waiting.

A team of 22 airmen from the base all experienced woodsmen and volunteers aided police officers and game wardens in the search last night. Rain hampered their efforts.

Mrs. Stone said her husband was an experienced hunter but was unfamiliar with the area in which he was lost, which is near the White River about 15 miles south-east of DeWitt.

The Dodgers' flight to the promised land paid off with a crowd of 92,294 Sunday for the first series game ever on the West Coast.

Monday's attendance topped that by 258, establishing the record at 92,550.

The players' share of Monday's gate was $231,268.18, boosting the total pool, based on the first four games only, to a record $92,335.04. The winning club would have to hold its split to 33 players, however, to beat the winning-share record of $11,147.90.

There's a better chance that another record crowd will be on hand. The Dodgers and White Sox, sure of getting their fingers into the richest players' pool ever, have broken the existing crowd record on consecutive days here in Los Angeles—where Mayor Norris Poulson boasted "we think big" in making his winning pitch to the Brooklyn Dodgers three years ago.

Yerger Tigers Clobber Team From Dunbar

By PAT CARR

The Yerger High Tigers snubbed a wet field Saturday night and went on to defeat the Dunbar Buffaloes of Texarkana, Texas by a decisive score of 28-6 at Hammon Stadium.

Yerger received the poening kick off and immediately started marching down the field. After having a first down on their own 40, the Tigers crossed the mid-field stripe as McFadden carried to the Buffaloes' 40. Seconds later McFadden split up the middle to the 26 for another first down. Reed traversed right end to the 20. A Texarkana penalty gave Yerger first-in-goal at the 4 yard line. Quarterback Earl Edwards handed off to Reed who crossed over for the TD. The PAT attempt failed.

The Buffaloes fumbled on their own 35 and Yerger recovered. Edwards, on a fake handoff, advanced to the 24. HB Reed pushed his way to the 13 yard line. Two plays later FB McFadden crossed over from the five for the second Tiger touchdown.

Yerger took command again on the 35 after Texarkana failed to gain with McFadden plumped up the middle to the 12. On the next play Reed crossed for his second marker of the night and the Tigers third TD. HB Warren scampered around left end for the extra point and Yerger was leading 20-0 with six minutes remaining in the first half.

The Buffaloes finally began to click as they crossed over into Yerger soil for the first time with a first down on the 45. QB Harvey James threw a completed pass to Evans on the Tiger 27. James carried to the nine. A Yerger penalty gave the Buffaloes a first down on the Tiger four where James crossed over for Texarkana lone tally. The PAT failed.

The Tigers managed to go from their own 32 to the Buffalo 28 before the first half ended with Yerger leading 20-6.

High was slaughtered in his own end zone by Reed and Pearson to give Yerger a two-point, and another chance with the ball. A completed pass from Edwards to Knox good for 30 yards gave the Tigers a first down on the Buffalo 20. Reed cut the distance as he carried to the 10.

A penalty advanced the ball to the five, where Reed crossed over for his third TD. The PAT failed, and Yerger led 28-6 at the end of the third quarter which ended the scoring.

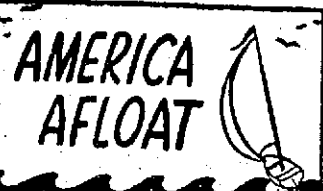

Next Thursday the Tigers will journey to the spa city to meet the Langston High Bulldogs in a Big Nine Conference game. Yerger is 2-0 in league play and 3-0 overall.

"The life of Ma-ka-tai-me-she-kia-kia" is an autobiography written or dictated by Black Hawk (1767-1838), chief of the Sac Indians. In 1830, his lands were sold by the Sacs to the U.S., but he could not bear to see them occupied by white people so in 1832 he started fighting in the Rock River Valley near Rock Island, Ill. Although reinforced by 1,000 warriors, Black Hawk was defeated and taken captive.

PREVIEW SHOWS MORE POWER IN OUTBOARDS
By WM. T. MCKEOWN
Editor, Popular Boating (Distributed by NEA Service)

MINNEAPOLIS (NEA)—Once again, more power is in prospect for the outboard motor boatman. A preview here of next year on the water showed that the small boat owner can now choose from a wider and more versatile assortment of portable power plants. Models ranging from 30 horsepower down to 1½ will be available in 1960.

The outboarding part of boating has become so large and such a year-around activity that outboard motor manufacturers now announce new lines in the fall.

For a number of years major emphasis has been on larger and more potent motors. But the biggest news here is a light little job with the push of 7½ horses packed into 34 pounds.

It's designed for the fisherman and camper who wants a model to take to the lake, clamp on the stern of a boat for the day, and then put back in the trunk of the car with room to spare for fishing tackle, bait box and the rest. The top of this motor has been flattened and lowered to allow less chance of fouling fishing lines when trolling.

The largest engine in the line is a redesigned 60-horse model, others range down to a small air-cooled 3.6.

The horsepower leader again next year will be Klekhaefer with

LSU Still Top Team in U. S., Arkansas 19th

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The team rankings for the still young 1959 college football season are beginning to bear out the coaches' theory that hard-packed defensive football is what wins games, even though it doesn't stir the spectators.

Of the top ten teams in the third Associated Press ranking poll of the season, three have uncrossed goal lines and three others have allowed only one touchdown each.

Louisiana State, which features a rugged and eager defensive unit known as the "Chinese Bandits," is at its top ranking in the poll of sports writers and broadcasters by a dwindling margin over Northwestern. The 121 ballots cast gave LSU 1,064 points and Northwestern 1,041 although Louisiana's Tigers had a 69-30 lead in first-place votes.

In three games so far, LSU has allowed only three points, shutting out its last two opponents, Texas, in fourth place, and Mississippi, which slid to fifth in a close vote this week, haven't yielded a point in three games each. Southern California (No. 6), Purdue (No. 7) and Tennessee (No. 8) have allowed one touchdown each.

The big exception is Georgia Tech, which squeezed its way up from seventh place to third this week. Tech, usually strong on defense has given up 30 points in three winning games. Northwestern has allowed its two opponents—Oklahoma and Iowa—23 points.

The ratings underwent another big shakeup as a result of last Saturday's games. Iowa dropped from fifth to tenth and Army, Clemson and Notre Dame fell from the first ten clear out of sight. Newcomers to the top ten were Purdue, winner over Notre Dame; Southern California and Wisconsin.

The top ten teams with first place votes in parentheses: 1. Louisiana State (89).....1,064 2. Northwestern (30).....1,041 3. Georgia Tech.....965 4. Texas.....953 5. Mississippi (2).....601 6. Southern California (9).....575 7. Purdue.....466 8. Tennessee.....429 9. Wisconsin.....223 10. Iowa.....182

Second ten 11. South Carolina (3).....158 12. Syracuse (1).....132 13. Oklahoma (X).....97 14. Auburn.....88 15. Southern Methodist.....63 16. Penn State (2).....66 17. Florida.....50 18. Air Force.....35 19. Arkansas.....34 20. Illinois.....33

Missouri, New Mexico State and Ohio State had one first place vote each.

The Mercury 800. Eighty horsepower is to be delivered by a new six-cylinder model, 10 more than this year, and the line lowers through eight additional motors to a 6 h.p. unit.

Evinrude and Johnson have gone into power output. Each have a 75-horse motor as the power leader. 25 more than 1959 when 50 was the top.

Designers have finally admitted that a 200-pound unit is not precisely portable, and the Evinrude 75 no longer has the familiar wing clamps for securing the motor to the transom. Instead it bolts into place—still easily removable if necessary, but more firmly attached.

Noise level appears to be no higher than in this year's 50-horse unit. Johnson and Evinrude will have a 40 as the next largest motor, then a range down through 18, 10 and 5½ to 3.

Gas motors will run from a new V80, 35 and 25 down to a little 2-horse model.

Diesel outboards, long reported in the field, have been announced in 22, 15 and 7½ h.p. motors.

Accessories on some of the new lines are going to include built-in generating systems, bilge pumps, ammeters and tachometers for determining the most economical throttle setting. The highest priced

Coming and Going
Mrs. Arzulla Freeman and son Freddie spent Sunday, at the VA Hospital where her brother, George Lollis is a patient.

Mrs. Martha Shaw of Chicago Mrs. Annie Keel of Royce City, Texas and Mrs. Lennie Washington of Monroe, La. have returned home after having attended the funeral of their mother and grand mother, Mrs. Josie Stuart.

Heavy Work Slated for the Porkers
FAWETTEVILLE Ark. (AP)—Heavy contact work was slated today as the University of Arkansas Razorbacks warmed up their preparation for Baylor's Bears next Saturday night at Waco.

The Hogs' tree of injuries except for a couple of recuperating players, had begun studying the prototype, pass-laden offense of Baylor. There's a good omen in the upcoming contest—Arkansas' only victory at Waco, in 1957 was a night game. Coach Frank Broyles said he looks for a tough contest, in view of Baylor's passing strength, and a running attack paced by sophomore halfback Ronnie Bull.

There have been no lineup changes. The squad looked at films of their 3-0 victory over Texas Christian University before yesterday's practice.

Quarterback Jim Monroe, who injured a shoulder against TCU, and Fullback Joe Paul Alberty, who has been out with a sprained ankle, were back on the practice field. Alberty alternated with Curtis Cox on the second unit.

The Hogs will be out to avenge last year's 12-0 loss to Baylor. They leave for Waco at noon Friday.

U. S. Airmen, Japs in a Bloody Brawl
TOKYO (AP)—Five U.S. airmen and a group of Japanese men clashed in a bloody brawl in near-by Tachikawa Sunday.

One U.S. air policeman was badly cut by a flying beer bottle. Another had to beat his way through an angry crowd of Japanese with his night stick.

The Air Force put an off-limits sign on the grounds. The Japanese will run close to $1,000. Airmen of the manufacturers? Better light motors for small boats and fishing craft, big units for faster water skiing and heavier outboard cruisers.

More fuel economy per horsepower, more ease of operation for every member of the boating family.

THE DARK FANTASY

BY WHIT MASTERS

Cloris removed her thumb from the hypodermic plunger and examined El Gallo's eyes closely. The pupils were dilate and he didn't appear to see her. "I think he's ready."

"You are going to answer my questions," Mallory spoke firmly but without raising his voice, as if instructing a child.

Slowly and patiently, Mallory drew out the information they sought and the vehicle which El Gallo had loaned to them. It was frustrating labor. El Gallo's thoughts kept straying to other subjects and slipping into incoherence. "Better hurry," Cloris advised Mallory nervously. "I don't know how long we can keep him awake."

Mallory nodded. Perspiration beaded his forehead from the battle of wills. "Where do they intend to cross the border?"

El Gallo's lips moved but no sound emerged. Mallory bent close to the other man's face and repeated the question. He could barely hear the whispered answer. It was, "The beach."

"When?" El Gallo was staring blankly at the ceiling, didn't reply, even when Mallory slapped his face lightly. Mallory rose. He was panting from the strain. "I guess he's had it. We've found out enough anyway."

Cloris gave a fine squeeze on the plunger and removed the hypodermic from El Gallo's arm. "Let's get out of here before he wakes up. Pentathol wears off fast."

"How much time have we got?" "Maybe an hour." With frenzied movements, she threw her equipment into the bag. "He's going to have an awful headache."

"I've got one myself." "Cloris was waiting for them at the foot of the stairs. He had been joined by El Gallo's mother and, walking down into their suspicious scrutiny, Cloris felt her legs begin to quiver. She grasped Mallory's arm tightly as they descended. He said, as if continuing a conversation, "Hearing about all that good fishing makes me wonder if we couldn't stay over an extra day." Turning toward Cagigas, he asked, "I suppose it's possible to rent tackle and anything else we'd need, isn't it?"

"Yes," Cagigas eyed them sharply. "Where is El Gallo?"

"Upstairs. We've been discussing fishing."

"All this time?"

"And other things, as well. He'll undoubtedly tell you about it." Casually, Mallory shifted Cloris past the other two in the direction of the front door, began to follow. "Good afternoon."

"Just a moment," Cagigas sauntered after them. "We have a rule, a business practice. No one leaves here until El Gallo himself dismisses him."

Cloris felt the walls of the foyer begin to close in on her. Senora Estudillo reached the top of the stairs; she vanished from sight along the corridor. Cloris knew it was only a matter of seconds until it was all over and she cast an imploring glance at Mallory. With apparent unconcern, he had gotten out his cigarettes and was offering the pack to Cagigas.

Cagigas hesitated, then shook his head. But the movement of extending the pack allowed Mallory to close the gap between them. Still holding out the cigarettes, he kicked Cagigas smartly on the left kneecap. Cagigas lurched forward, one hand clawing for his gun. Mallory hit him twice, knuckle-blows into his throat, and let him fall. Cagigas plunged face down onto the carpet and lay there, twitching slightly.

At the same moment, they heard El Gallo's mother scream from the direction of the master bedroom. Mallory grabbed Cloris' shoulder. "Let's get out of here."

The taxi was waiting, as Mallory had ordered, and at the sight of them, Ramon started his engine hurriedly. "Alright," Mallory directed as they flung themselves into the rear seat.

But their luck, which had held up for so long, ran out at last. While still a mile away from the field, they heard the roar of engines, looking out, they saw the big four-engine plane appear above the low hills. It passed almost directly above them.

Ramon was gazing at them questioning. "Drive on to the air field," Mallory said. "Maybe there's another flight leaving soon."

There wasn't. The regularly scheduled airliner from the mainland wasn't due until the morning. However, the airport manager gave them a ray of hope. There was a cargo plane, loaded with tomatoes, cucumbers and melons for shipment to the United States.

Cagigas was scowling as he came out of the terminal. "We are too late. They have run away." His voice was a whisper, painfully hoarse.

"Then cease continuing to be a fool. Private vengeance is seldom practical and never profitable. Well, Bringas, what are you waiting for?" The chauffeur drove the sedan around the terminal building, heading down the landing strip to where several private aircraft were parked. El Gallo continued. "If we had found the pair here, well, that would have been a different matter. I too have a debt to pay. But we did not find them and so I don't intend to waste my time chasing them from one end of Baja California to the other. Particularly when business calls me elsewhere."

Thursday May Prove to Be Best TV Night

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Thursday evening may prove one of the best television nights of the week.

A large part is due to Playhouse 90 on CBS. It came back Thursday night, live, with an exciting and meaningful play: "Target for Three," by David Davidson. It involves a group of revolutionaries in an unnamed Latin American country, plotting to kill the dictator who has been in power for 31 years. As the mob drags him off to a firing squad, a nervous, significantly bearded firebrand starts snapping military orders to his fellow rebels. The ironic moral was clear: yesterday's liberators often become tomorrow's tyrants.

It was extremely well-acted by a cast which included Ricardo Montalban, George C. Scott, Marianna Pavan and Pedro Armendariz.

Earlier in the evening, one had a choice between "To Tell the Truth," in its new early evening CBS spot, and a new NBC western, "Law of the Plainsman." The latter is a stock western with a gimmick: the marshal is an Indian — with a Harvard degree.

Sleeper of the season may prove to be Betty Hutton's new CBS series. It's a thoroughly enjoyable comedy about a diamond-in-the-rough manicurist who becomes guardian for three problem children and executes for an enormously rich industrialist. Miss Hutton is just the girl to extract the most from it.

"Johnny Ringo," was CBS's new Western entry. It's one of those fastest-draw-in-the-West programs — with a twist. The twist is a seven-shooter, one extra bullet which knocked off two bad men Thursday night with a single shot. Also there was Pat Boone returning to NBC. He came back with some musical help from Nat King Cole, the fabulous Fabian and Gogi Grant. This season it is planned to make a comedian out of Pat. If Thursday night's efforts were a sample of things to come that's a bad mistake.

THIS, TOO, IS TEXAS EASTERN

Corrosion control helps keep our pipelines healthy

Pipelines are subject to corrosion. You are probably best acquainted with corrosion in the form of rust or the greenish accumulation on battery cables.

Texas Eastern is working actively and constantly to stop corrosion and keep its pipelines delivering natural gas without expensive interruptions to replace corrosion-pitted pipe sections.

Corrosion is an electrochemical action. It takes place when a natural electric current flows from a bare spot on the pipe into the earth — taking along with it minute particles of metal.

So, we electrically isolate the pipe from the surrounding soil. When we lay a pipeline, the mechanical monster shown above encases the pipe in a double wrapping of extra-heavy, extra-tough glass fiber and an outer wrap over a coating of tar or other pipeline enamels.

However, even a minor break in the insulation can be an open door for corrosive action. To guard against this, we set up our second line of defense: cathodic protection.

Current is sent into the pipe to retard the corrosive current flow from the metal. We have two ways of attaining this protection. The first is by using a "rectifier unit" (right) which converts home-style alternating current to direct current, sends it through conductor cables to buried ground beds of expendable materials, such as graphite or iron, and then through the soil to the pipeline.

The second method could be called the "dry cell" method. Galvanic anodes, consisting of magnesium or zinc, are buried near and connected to the pipeline. They act in the same manner as the zinc of a flashlight battery—and send a current through the earth to the steel pipe, which "stands in" for the cell's carbon.

It takes time — and money — to determine what special protection, if any, a given section of pipe needs. But the cost of corrosion control is actually an investment that pays off in the lengthened life of the pipeline and continuous service.

FRESH STYLE

One look tells you this new Chevy's a beautiful eye-fel—from the new full-width grille to the "V" of its unique rear deck.

easy loading
luggage compartment

New convenience has been built into Chevy's extra-roomy luggage compartment by lowering the loading height. You'll find space enough for a vacation-size luggage load under that sleek rear deck.

NEW
spaciousness inside

Inside the Body by Fisher you'll find room and more room. There's room to sprawl in, room to sit tall in—and the roofline has a respect for hats. A new flatter transmission tunnel is a boon to the middle man. Here is the kind of space that invites the family.

VS POWER

Under the hood thrift is accentuated in a new standard V8, engineered to deliver up to 10% more miles for every gallon while giving you more zest at normal speeds. Or you might choose its strapping teammate—Chevy's Hi-Thrift 6—the engine that starts saving the moment you flip the ignition switch.

NEW QUIET AND COMFORT

Thicker, newly designed body mounts insulate you from road shock and noise, insuring an almost cocoon-like quiet. Full Coil spring suspension melts bumps as no other suspension system can. Oil hushed hydraulic valve lifters reduce engine noise to a whisper.

!NEW!
for the driver

Everybody will want to be the driver when he sees the kind of pleasure a turn at the wheel brings. The driver finds Chevy has further cushioned him from engine impulses by an improved clutch linkage system.

There's also a convenient new parking brake that automatically returns to its normal height after application. And Chevy provides a choice of 24 engine-transmission hookups to meet the requirements of the most discriminating driver.
